OIL FOR THE FLEET.

Mr. Churchill's Speech.

THE MAYY'S AIRCRAFT.

In the House of Commons yesterday mays the "Daily Telegraph" of March 3, Mr. Churchill explained why he had to ask for a Supplementary Estimate of £2,500,000 for various naval services for the year 1913 1914. The expenditure falls under five

(I) Increase of oil reserves 2500,000 (2) New programme of air-

(3) Increased dockyard £200,000 (4) Acceleration of three battleships of the 1913.14 programme, owing to the loss of the Canadian Naval Aid Bill £457,000 (5) Net over earning by contractors £1,000,000

As to the oil reserves, Mr Churchill pointed out that they were strictly proportioned to the number of versels using oil, and so for from there, being any shortage of oil

1. That the country primerand at this moment considerably more than three reats place communition for the existing oil-burning fleet, and

2. That the Admiralty would continue to keep sufficient oil to be able to conduct, a whole year's war. Month by month, continued Mr.

Churchill, as the Fleet increased, the oil position would be maintained. The First Lord ridiculed the ala mist rumours and "fairy tales" which had been current in curtain quarters as to the narrow margain. of oil reserves on which the Navy was reported to be working, and said that the standard of reserve was subject to revision from time to time. A heavy burden had been imposed on the admiralty by the fact that the average price of oil, including freight, had more than, doubled in the last CNU YOURS.

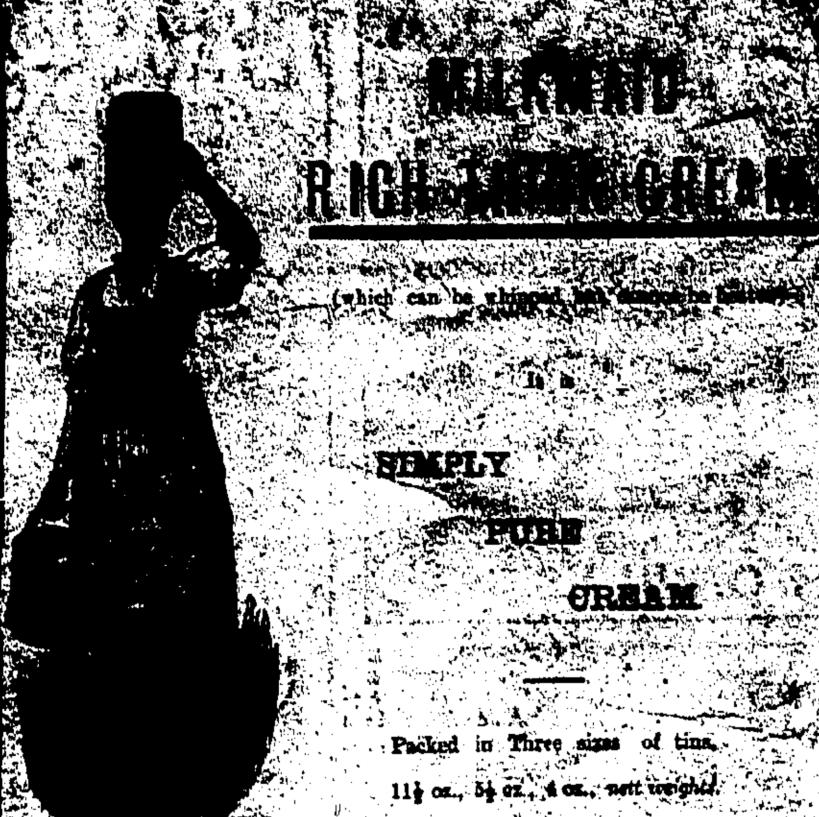

E-GLANGE'S ZEPPELIN. With regard to the new air-craft programme of the Admiralty, Mr. Churchil announced that he kind placed contracts for the following airship:

1. ()ne large rigid and three smaller nonmigid dirigibles. The former, to quote Mr. Churchill's description, is * approximately a Zeppelin of the latest type," and is being

2. One large non-rigid Astra-Torres sir-3. hree large semi-rigid airships of Italian design. Two of these will be built

Two new sirehip sheds are to be built one in the Medway and one in Norfolk, and Mestra. Vickers and Messre. Armstrong are also building sheds, in connection with the above contracts. .. These new airships and shade will out £478,000. of which Erouties on this year's Estimates. Additional expenditure on seaplanes bring up the total to £207,000.

The First Lord of the Admiralty also carefully indicted that though there has hears not over earning by contractors durwhich of conese, will benefit the Estimates of mest year and the year after construe work is still several municipa in arrests.

A Natural Remedy

Time was when disease was thought to be due to the direct influence of evil spirits, and exorcism and magic were invoked to cast it out

Science has taught us wisdom The evil spirits exist still. We call them " Disease Germs," and they also must be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines, fever with its hallucinations, or biliousness with its aches pains, is the result.

ENQ'S FRUIT SALT

is the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Its action is quick and thorough. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to new life, stimulates the mucous membrane to a healthy action, and cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive tract.

It may be safely taken at any time by young

It is very effective in the early stage of Diarricea en vernoping the irritating cause

In A LI HON FAN, a Chinese graduate | his place the chairman welcomed H.E. Dr. Chin-tao Chen, the Commissioner for Finance. Continuing, the speaker said I have no reason to believe that there is my cloud over cour relations with Chine. (Hear, hear.) Everything seems to be going on perfectly, and I can only oxpress the good wishes of every Englishman towards the endervours of the Chi neso Government to retablish popular truic To some extent the Chinese liave followed in the tracks which we made to address you rather with the ard to the tion. Ti has come to the knowledge of most of us that matters have not been going quite as well for the British merchant and manufacturer in China as in the past. It is not our hult that many years ago trade with China was carried on in different style from the present. Those were the days of the old English merchant adventurer, who filled his ship with goods collected from this country, cottons, metal goods, and oven guns, perhaps-and set out for foreign climes, proceeding to deal not so much by methods of monetary exchange as by barter. Those were the good old individualist days, when every man was for himself, irrespective of his Government. I an sorry to say that those days are to large extent past, and we find our com petitors in China no longer setting forth as individualists, but going in compact bands, backed by their respective Governments. It altogether maiding a combined attempt to wrest from us the trade which we had rome to look upon as our own. We have not been able to follow these methods quite so much as I think we should have done, but this Associa- MONDAY 6th April to receive a Statetion is certainly a step in that direction. We wish to do as an Association what it would be impossible for the individual to do; we want to put the case of the British engineering manufacturer before instant to 6th prox. both days inclusive. the Eastern Powers as a whole, and we think we have taken the right steps in hereigh the interests of the trade. We wish to organise, like, our competitors, though we as an Association, are not intending get orders direct, but to work by in fluence. We have to some extent been successful. During the past year we have caused the equipment to be supplied to the mechanical laboratory of the University of Hongkong, on the Home Committee of which I was some time a appointed. In this connection we lee that the rising generation of the Chinese people should be educated by British dens, by British methods, and perhaps by means of the English tongue, an would come for supplies. We have worked at home, and have received considerable recognition by Departments of the Government, while we hope to enlist the sympathies of our representatives : the Diplomatic and Consular services i a way that would have been impossible in the face of the old traditions as individuals. It always seems to me quite British Government abroad should no think it right to help an individual manu facturer, for there-might be a suspicion of unfairness about that, but they can certainly help an association without aving any ground for complaint. We can appeal as an Association with greater confidence, therefore, to our Govern ment's representatives abroad than we could individually. It is our hope to get it recognised that membership of this Association is in itself a thing to be proud of, and if we succeed in increasing the trade of our country with China we shall not only be doing good work for curselves, but we shall be doing a great deal to promote Anglo-Chinese relations. THE BRITISH ENGINEERS ASSO. CIATION.

(Continued from page 6: H.R. Dr. Chin-Two Chen, componding thanked the Association for the corried reception given him, and said that it was A pleasure or well or a brivilege to be in PARTICULARS AND CONDITIONS of the letting the company of mon who had done great bhings in China, and who, judging from the cuthusiasm displayed that evening Public Works Department, by Order would, he ventured to predict, continue of His Excellency the Governor, of to do great things in and for China.
Two Lots of CROWN LAND at After expressing his regret at the absence Hau Fung Lane, and on Mt. I ari h of the Chinese Minister, his Excellency kong, for a term of 75 years, with the went on to say: Chinese finance is a option of renewal at Crown Rents to difficult tack, but taking our Minister's be fixed by the Surveyor of His place to-night is a more difficult one. Majesty the King, for one further I have handled some of the most difficult problems of finance in China, for I was mainly responsible for financing the rovolution-(great applause)-but I must confess I have never felt so nervous se when "asked to speak before so many experts and men of experience as are assembled here to-night. From what the chairman has said, I see that the British Engineers' Association has a very worthy and noble object. It seeks, if I understand rightly, to protect British manufacturers and Chinese consumers; it seeks to further British trade by fair dealing, by enlightening and educating the Chi neso people to appreciate the quality and value of British goods, and, most important of all, your organisation seeks to cultivate the friendly relations and goodwill between the two nations. The British nation possesses the lion's share of China's foreign trude, and, from recent investigations by an expert, it appears that you have also the greatest amount of capital invested in my country. In round figures, you have about £40,000,000 invested in the Republic of China to-day -almost three times as much as the French, who are reputed to have the reatest amount of surplus capital for foreign investment. If China is prosperous, British trade is bound to flourish British manufacturers will be busy, and Chinese bonds happy. Thus the interests of Great Britain and China are comon. China now regrets that she not in a more favourable position render you as much help as she desires. She is bound hand and foot-in her early years of ignorance and indiscretion-by treatios. Now she has learnt that machinery and commodities such as are manufactured by the members of thi Association are productive agents whose. importation should be encouraged. She has also learnt that revenue must be regularly found to maintain the organisution of the Government, but by treation China is not allowed to increase we texation on luxuries in order to give greater freedom and encouragement to productive agents. I believe it is a recognised principle to tax luxuries heavily and steples lightly, yet this is exactly what Chins is not allewed to do. In this connection reminiscences of City life to which Sir Mr E. Bauckham les me express my gratitude for your Homewood Crawford, the City solicitor, Government's recent assistance to my treated his audience at the London Ins. Mr. C. D. J. PREBILENT WILSON ON PANAMA SANAL TOLLS.

A QUESTION OF HAMOUR.

Reuter wire from Washington to he Lordon Dally Telegraph on search

President Wilson personally appealed to-day to Congress, swembled in joint mession, to sustain the hostour of the United States by repealing the Panama Canni Tolle Exemption against which Great Britain protests. He fellows this course in support of the foreign policy diseases which are due to garms. of the United States, and also because the exemption of American ships is a mistaken economic policy and a contravention of the Hay-Pauncelote Treaty. The following is the text of this, his shortest Message so far :

"I have come to you upon an errand bline can be most briefly performed, but I beg you not to measure its importance by the number of sentences in which I state it. No communication I addressed to Congress has carried with it more now speaking upon a matter with regard I have been reduced to one and one only to which I am charged to a peculiar (for sore throat), namely, Wulfing's Forms. degree by the Constitution itself with personal responsibility.

"LAHOR POLICY" NEEDED. " I have come to ask for the repeal that provision of the Panama Canal Act of Aug. 21, 1912, which exempts vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States from the payment of tolls, and to urge upon you the justice and wisdom and large policy of such a repeal with the utmost camestness of which I am capable.

" In my own judgment, very fully considered and maturely formed, that exemption constitutes a mistaken economic policy from every point of view, and is, moreover, in plain contravention of the trenty with Great Britain concerning the Canal concluded on Nov. 19, 1901... " But I have not come to you to urge my personal views. I come to state to you the facts and the situation. Whatever may be our own differences opinion concerning this much-debated measure, and its meaning, it is not debuted outside the United States. Everywhere clee the language of the treaty is given but one interpretation, and that interpretation precludes the exemption I am asking you to repeal.

TO REDEEM OBLIGATIONS. "We consented to the treaty and its anguage. We accepted if we did not originate it, and we are too big and powerful and too self-respecting a nation to interpret with too strained or refined a reading of words our own promises just because we have power enough to give us leave to read them as we please. The large thing to do is the only thing we can afford to do-voluntary withdrawal from a position everywhere questioned and misunderstood. We ought to reverse our action without raising the question whother we are right or wrong, and so once simply repeated the story of how he commore deserve our reputation for genero sity and the redemption of every obligation without quibble or hesitation. "I ask" this of you in support of the foreign policy of the Administration. shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence, if you do not great it to me in ungrudging measure." The House of Representatives was packed to hear President Wilson read his message. The French and German Ambassadors sut in the places reserved for thein, but no official from the British Embassy was there.

The Misses Wilson had places in the Executive gallery, but Mrs. Wilson w not present for the first time on such occasion, not having recovered from the shock of a fall she had, at the White House a day or two ago.

After the burst of applause with which Dr. Wilson was greeted had subsided, he began reading, and had finished and departed before the surprised galleries could take breath. Then there was another outburst of cheering.

Within ten minutes Mr. Chilton, the Inter-Oceanic Canals Commission; had introduced in the Senato a bill authorising the President to suspend tolls exemption. Mr. Adamson, who has charge of the repeal of legislation in the House of presentatives, said that the address pleased him because it meant honesty

home and justice abroad.

the audience. He is a rather frail boy, with fair hair cut very short, and was dressed in black. He seemed but little impressed at first, but when the judge began to read out the questions his eyes filled with tears. He answered in a low whisper, so low that the judge had repeatedly to tell him to speak louder. He mitted the seven murders, one after the other, and why he did it. The judge, in addressing the jury, said that there was no evidence but the boy's own story as to how he committed the murders, as all the victims are dead. The boy continued to weep most of the time.

THE POLITICAL CRISIS.

To all appearance there is another little lull in the political camp at Home, as to-day's telegrams: contain nothing that indicates that the debate in the House of Commons are continuing. - The commanding figure of Mr. Asquith has been temporarily withdrawn from the scene, and as

Mr. Bonar Law, the doughty champion of His Majesty's Opposition, has that he considers it a sort of hereay

to discuss Home Rule in the absence of the Prime Minister, it may be concluded that his followers will not on his cue and not have much to say regarding that much discussed, controversial measure until Mr. Asquith returns triumphantly—(at least, we hope he will)—from the by-election

The most important item on the

of the House of Commons have expresed themselves in favour of a Federal solution." They have drafted an amendment to that effect which ther intend shall be "pressed upon view of acceptance by general consent" Thus it will be seen, that even in the ranks of the bellicose and, alas,

Opposition, the spirit of mild and evidence. The attitude of this band of compromisers will meet with the

minded men not blinded by party prejudice. We take it that the practically means nothing more nor

We have no doubt that before long all this hubbub engendered by Ulster's attitude towards the Government will be amicably settled. Meantime the most important thing that has occurred, from the Liberals point of view, is the splendid "party cry" the recent agitation has given them, for no party could successfully oppose the "Army versus The People" troversy. The Rumour Exploded.

A telegram from Simla states that Press communique in yesterday morning's papers says that the Daily Telegraph statement is absolutely unfounded.

"The Times" Agrees With Mr.

The Times says that Mr. Asquith has done the right thing. It is an unprecedented step, which proves the gravity of the situation. It is confident that Mr. Asquith's presence in the War Office will restore the confidence of all ranks, and expresses the opinion that it is Mr. Asquith's duty to shield the Army from the wanton attempts which are being made to raise a new electioneering The Cabinet met for two hours prior ery of. War Office. Lord Morley explained that In reply to a question, Sir Edward, Colonel Seely's first resignation had an entirely different point, and it might appear that the Minister had made a bargain with Lord Morley himself, who had nover seen Brig.

Better Feeling Between Parties.

In the House of Lords, Lord Crewe said that Mr. Asquith had asked General Paget to come to London and give a full account regarding the attitude of the Curragh officers. Lord Crewe added that recent events had not weakened but strengthened the belief in the possibility of an agreement among the parties regarding Home Rule.

CAVES ON THE NORTH RIVER.

(Contributed.)

This section of Kwangtung province has many more underground structures than the public knows about. Some of the most interesting formation in the world may be seen near Ying-tak City.

Five miles south west of the city located a most wonderful eave that rivals in some respects the famous mammoth cav in Kentucky. U.S.A. One can circulate around the different departments of this cave for hours and be surprised at the many unique formations that have developed during the long ages. Stalagmires and stalactites may be seem at a number of places as perfect as can be found anywhere in the world. Many sparkling stones that shine with a beautiful luster when in the light are found in this cave. Soon after entering this remarkable cavers there appears a huge dome to splendid propotions. At the center of this dome these is a small opening through which the rays of the sunlight eater. This profuces a most beautiful effect upon the hanging stones and massive crags lying about. Also there is one small tunnellike opening that ascends, and descends from one corner of, the grotto, which fellowed by the faithful explorer will bring him to the land on the ontaids. This cave
